

Spelling Bee Rules

1. In competition, after the pronouncer gives the speller a word, the speller will pronounce the word before and after. The judges will know that the speller is done if he or she pronounces the word after spelling it and the pronouncer will be assured that the speller has heard the word correctly if he or she pronounces it before beginning to spell it.
2. The speller may ask the pronouncer to say the word again, define it, and/or use it in a sentence. The pronouncer shall grant all such requests until the judges agree that the word has been made reasonably clear to the contestant. Judges may disqualify any speller who ignores a request to start spelling.
3. Having started to spell a word, a speller may stop and start over, retracing the spelling from the beginning, but in retracing there can be NO change of letters or their sequence from those first pronounced if he said the word after spelling.
4. The contest shall be conducted in rounds. Each speller remaining in the spelling bee at the start of a round shall spell one word in the round, except when there are two spellers remaining. (At that point, refer to Rule 6.)
5. If a word has one or more homonyms, the pronouncer will indicate which word is to be spelled. If the listed word is not properly identified, either by defining it or using it in a sentence, any correct spelling of any homonym of the word will be accepted.
6. When the number of spellers is reduced to four, the elimination procedure changes. At that point, when one speller misspells a word, the other speller shall be given an opportunity to spell that same word. If the second speller spells that word correctly, plus the next word on the pronouncer's list, then the first one who misspelled the word will be eliminated. If one of the last three spellers, after correcting the error, misspells the new word submitted to him/her, then the misspelled new word shall be given to the next speller. If the next speller then succeeds in correcting the error and correctly spells the next word on the list, then the first one who misspelled the word will be eliminated.
7. Protests may be filed by anyone (the speller, parent, teacher, etc.) wishing to reinstate a speller into the contest but will not be heard from any individual seeking to dislodge another speller from the competition. Deadline for filing a protest is before the speller affected would have received his/ her word and he/she stayed in the contest. NO PROTEST will be entertained after that word has been given to another speller.

Protests should be verbally made to a designated person immediately. It is especially important to speak up right away.

8. Judges are in complete control of the competition. Their decisions are final. Spelling bees are not unlike sporting events in which referees call the plays as they see them. Players don't always agree with the decisions or like them, but accept them as part of good sportsmanship.

9. This is the most important rule of all. Please have fun and relax, whether you're a participant or a spectator.

10. Spellers with special needs may write their answers on a white board should they be non-verbal or have a speech difficulty.
